

Knowledge Organiser for Year 3 History: Prehistoric Britain

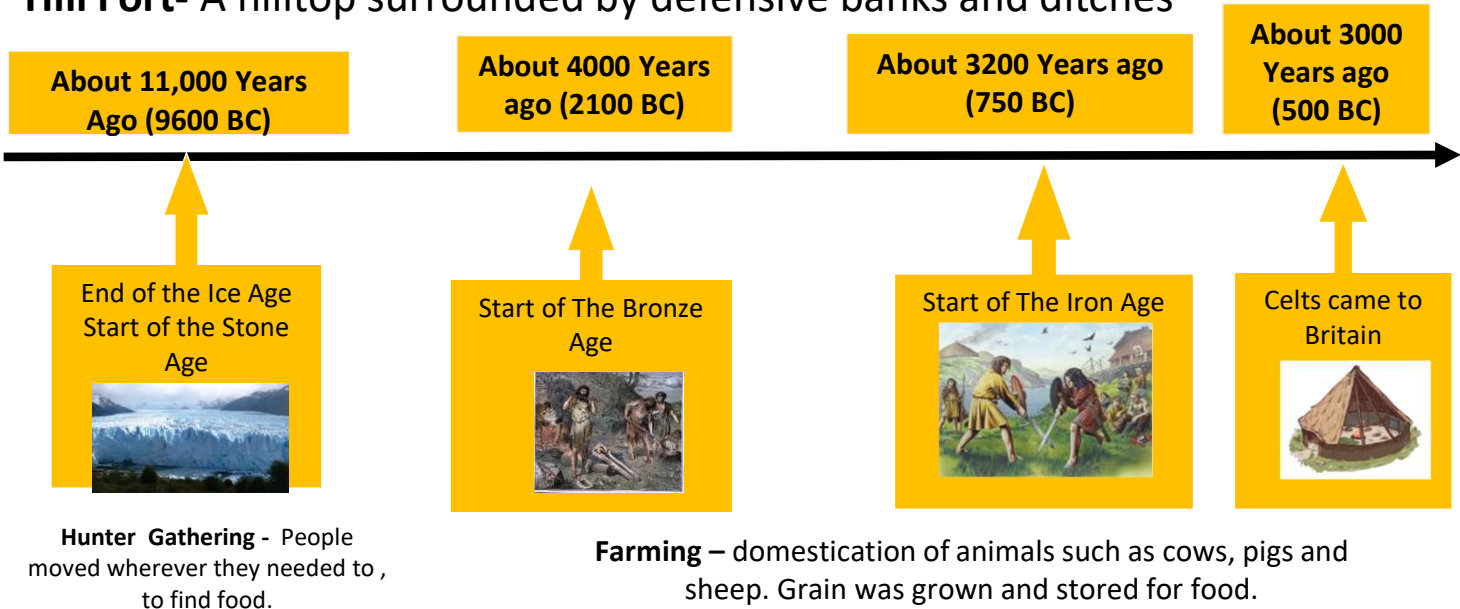

How and why did life change from the Stone Age to the Iron Age?

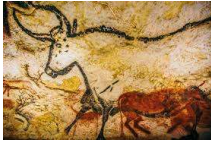

Tier 3 Vocabulary

Hunter Gatherer- Someone who lives by hunting, fishing and collecting wild plants for food

Archaeologist- Someone who studies things made in the past to find out about what life was like

Hill Fort- A hilltop surrounded by defensive banks and ditches

<h3>Stone Age</h3> Cave paintings tell us about the lives of the Stone Age people.  Archaeologists have found that tools were made of flint because it could be sharpened and was widely available.  Stone Age people hunted and gathered their food. They relied on the environment for everything and trekked for miles to set up camps where food was plentiful. 	<h3>Bronze Age</h3>  10% Copper 90% Tin Alloy Bronze  The Beaker People came to Britain in 2500BC and brought with the knowledge of metal. <h4>The effects of the Bronze Age on the people of Britain:</h4>  Better Weapons  Better Tools  Better Armour
--	---

Settlements (History of Ely and Cambridge) Year 1/2

Prior and Future Knowledge

Technical Advances – Industrialisation and Ancient Greece, Year 5/6